

The Richard Lowe Graduate Award in American Civil War History honors the work of UNT Regents Professor Richard Lowe at the Department of History, whose passion for understanding the U.S. Civil War and the 19th-century South, was a pillar of his teaching career and research. For the occasion of his retirement in the year 2018, the Department of History and his former students announce this scholarship.